Biography

Lynda Johnson Robb Ship's Sponsor

Lynda Johnson Robb is the oldest daughter of former President Lyndon B. Johnson and Lady Bird Johnson and a self-proclaimed "professional volunteer." She is currently President of the National Home Library Foundation, Chair Emerita of Reading is Fundamental, and a member of the board of the Lady Bird Johnson Wildflower Research Center.

She has previously served as Co-Vice Chair of America's Promise, member of the board of Ford's Theatre, Chair of the President's Advisory Committee for Women, Chair of the Virginia Women's Cultural History Project, Chair of the Virginia Task Force on Infant Mortality, and Commissioner on the National Commission to Prevent Infant Mortality.

From 1966 to 1968, Robb wrote for McCall's magazine and from 1969 through 1981 worked as a contributing editor for Ladies' Home Journal.

She lives in McLean, Virginia with her husband former Virginia Governor and former United States Senator Charles Robb.
